

Living to Work — VS — Working to Live

How Work to Live support a
Joyfully Lead & Shine Attitude

When you live-to-work, we:

- Prioritise our work over our personal life
- Focus on the results our company wants, compromising on everything else
- Limit our focus to what we already know and understand, rather than reach out to explore new possibilities
- Limit our action to be based on short term outcomes rather than long term growth
- Are busy busy not achieving anything what feels worth while – believe success is only possible when we exhaust ourselves and our employees
- Allow work to becomes our number one (No. 1) priority in life – limiting time and energy for health, relationships and pleasure.

When you work to live, we:

- Lead wiser, live more and play harder
- Our work nurtures and energises us, making us feel more alive and engaged in the world
- Money and wealth is a result of doing what we love – not the reason why we do what we do
- Love our work, so we feel more relaxed and are more open to change and new possibilities/ opportunities
- Enjoying our lives and our work is a priority for us

When you work to live, we:

- Know what we love, what energizes us, what interest us and we choose work in alignment with this
- Have a home we love to spend time in and we make time to be there too
- Ensure our work gives us a sense of fulfilment, and thus more confidence
- Feel better about the work we do, thus we find it easier to reach out, connect and build relationships, whether they are for work or in our personal lives
- Are clearer on who we are and the value we give, which allows us to get clearer on priorities and get more done in less time!
